

COMPROMISE IN BALKAN DISPUTE

Threats Of Strike On P. E. Suburban Lines Renewed

ULTIMATUM DELIVERED TO COMPANY

Men to Walk Out Wednesday Unless Officials Agree to Arbitration
CLAIM FAITH BROKEN

Three Southern California Counties Would Be Affected by Walk Out

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10.—(UP)—Threat of strike on the Pacific Electric interurban lines was renewed today, increasing the tension brought about by an existing strike of city street car and bus workers.

In an ultimatum delivered to P. E. company officials, employee members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen threatened to walk out Wednesday unless the company agrees to arbitrate the wage dispute.

The ultimatum was addressed directly to the national mediation board which came here from Washington to handle the controversy after a walkout had been voted three weeks ago. The strike was postponed at that time in obedience to the board's request.

The new threat was voted by workers upon being informed by D. A. MacKenzie and Lee R. Smith, vice presidents, respectively of the Brotherhoods of Trainmen and Railroad Signalmen, that D. W. Pontius, P. E. president, had "broken faith" with the unions and the mediation board.

Instead of agreeing to arbitration, Pontius appealed to the board "for success" and "positively refused to change" the company's previously stated refusal to accept any arbitration that might involve wage increases, the workers were informed.

The Pacific Electric serves three Southern California counties, carrying more than 200,000 commuters daily. Any tieup would paralyze suburban service to Hollywood, Pasadena, Long Beach, Santa Monica, Glendale and other points in the metropolitan area.

The union is demanding a new wage scale ranging from 50 1-2 to 85 cents an hour.

CRIPPLED STEAMER RESUMES JOURNEY

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(UP)—The crippled Japanese freighter Victoria Maru is "now proceeding toward the English Channel under the escort of the S. S. Amsterdam," Radio Marine was advised today.

Radio Marine officials interpreted the message as indicating the freighter, first believed sinking in mid-Atlantic after a storm cost the lives of the master and two officers, was proceeding under her own power and that the Amsterdam was acting as convoy in case the Victoria Maru encountered further difficulties.

NOBEL PEACE PRIZES GO TO TWO BRITONS

Arthur Henderson Awarded 1934 Honors and Angell Wins 1933 Award

OSLO, Norway, Dec. 10.—(UP)—Arthur Henderson, British president of the World Disarmament conference, and Sir Norman Angell, British author and lecturer, were awarded the Nobel Peace Prizes for 1934 and 1933 respectively, it was announced today.

The award today of the 1933 and 1934 Nobel Prizes for work toward peace is a double triumph for the British Labor movement.

Henderson is a leader of the right wing of the Labor party, and Angell, like Henderson, has served in the House of Commons as a Labor member.

Henderson is 71. He began life as a moulder at Newcastle, and became an outstanding Labor leader. He was a member of the war cabinet, he was home secretary in the first Labor cabinet and was foreign minister in the second from 1929 to 1931. Then in 1932 he was made president of the World Disarmament conference. He has fought stoutly for its success against apparently insurmountable obstacles.

Sir Norman is 59. Educated privately and at school in France, he came to the United States as a youth and spent much time ranching and prospecting. Then he entered newspaper work and returned to Europe, first as correspondent for various American newspapers.

He was editor of the magazine Foreign Affairs from 1925 to 1931. He is a prolific writer on international politics and economics. He served in parliament as a Labor member from 1929 to 1931. He has lectured frequently in the United States, and contributes to American publications.

ICKES HOLDS OIL CODE BIG BENEFIT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(UP)—The NRA oil code has resulted in a more equitable distribution in petroleum-producing states, Oil Administrator Harold L. Ickes said today in his annual report to President Roosevelt.

"But some action must be taken," he said, "to curb over expansion of retail outlets." He estimated there are about 350,000 service stations in the United States.

Ickes' report, made in co-operation with Nathan R. Margold, resigned chairman of the Petroleum Administrative board, said that the increase in marketing channels had greatly increased industrial overhead and created an over-sensitive market structure. The situation, they said, creates "vicious price wars."

Enforcement of the oil code and effectiveness of Ickes' drive against "hot oil" in East Texas were placed with the bureau of investigation of the department of interior.

GOLD WAVE IN EAST TIES UP OCEAN LINERS

Snow Forecast Today; Six Reported Dead as Result of Weather

By UNITED PRESS
SNOW was forecast today in the wake of a cold wave which caused great hardship and tied up shipping and land transportation along the Atlantic coast. The cold claimed at least six lives.

Two vessels, pounded by mountainous seas and heavy gales, lay helpless in the Atlantic.

The Japanese freighter Victoria Maru, with her captain and two officers dead and seven of the crew injured, wallowed in waves approximately 500 miles north of the Azores with rescue ships standing by.

The Canadian steamer, Mary Kenney, without fuel or food, was approximately 100 miles off Barnegat with the coast guard cutter Champlain standing by ready to take off the crew of 12 or more.

The weather bureau predicted little if any change in temperature for New York and New Jersey Tuesday, and forecast light snows for the metropolitan area tonight.

Near zero weather continued in the Boston area where four persons died indirectly as a result of extreme cold.

New York registered 14 above shortly after 3 a. m. One man was killed.

DRUNK DRIVING ACCIDENTS IN HUGE INCREASE

Report of State Highway Patrol Shows Advance of 22 Per Cent

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Dec. 10.—(UP)—Motor vehicle accidents in California are involving a steadily increasing number of intoxicated drivers and pedestrians, according to reports of the California highway patrol.

Reports of automobile accidents for the first nine months of the year show 3,233 cases involving intoxicated persons, an increase of 58 or 22.7 per cent, it was announced.

Records of the department also showed that arrests for drunken driving increased from 884 in 1929 to 1412 in 1933. Of the first 10 months of this year, there were 2004 such arrests. These statistics, it was pointed out, do not include arrests made by traffic officers of city police departments.

"In actual practice a number of the cases involving liquor in which it would be difficult to prove that drivers or pedestrians were technically intoxicated would not appear in these figures," the report stated.

"Very often traffic officers in such instances prefer a charge of reckless driving noting usually, but not always, that the violator had been drinking. At the present time it is impossible to determine how many of the reckless driving cases involved the liquor angle. Although the data shows the problem to be very serious, it is in reality much more extended than the figures indicate."

During the first 10 months of 1934, 2375 drunken driving cases were heard before the courts of the state. Of this number, 2236 or 94 per cent were either convicted in the lower courts or were held to answer to a higher court. An aggregate sum of $117,056 was assessed by the courts in fines and bail forfeitures; the average for all convictions being $53.04.

LAMSON IN JAIL AS MOTHER BURIED

SAN JOSE, Cal., Dec. 10.—(UP)—By his own choice, David Lamson, charged with slaying his wife, remained in his jail cell today as the hour approached for the burial of his mother, Mrs. Jennie Lamson.

Mrs. Lamson died Saturday from injuries suffered in an automobile accident while en route to visit the prisoner, who is awaiting a new trial.

Lamson made no effort to obtain his release temporarily to attend the private funeral services planned for sometime today in Palo Alto. The family guarded closely the time for the service in order to prevent curious onlookers from attending.

"I do not believe I should attend my mother's funeral with this charge hanging over my head," Lamson said. "When I leave this cell I want to leave as a free man."

CARLSLE, Pa., Dec. 10.—(UP)—Elmo J. Noakes, of Roseville, Calif., one of the five victims of Pennsylvania's mystifying "babes in the woods" tragedy, was given full military honors at his burial here by members of the Carlsle post of the American Legion.

Three More Forts Fall To Paraguay

All Able Bodied Men To Be Sent To Front in Last Gran Chaco Stand

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 10.—(UP)—Bolivia prepared today to throw its entire man power into the war against Paraguay, while accepting without reservation the league of nations recommendations for peace.

Mobilization orders were prepared for all reservists, which means all able bodied men, between the ages of 18 and 50. The orders will send perhaps 150,000 men to the front and others to the services of supply.

As the orders were drafted, Bolivian and Paraguayan field guns thundered on the Bolivian edge of the Gran Chaco, the jungle territory, rich in oil, in dispute for a century.

Paraguayan dispatches from the front told of the capture of three more Bolivian forts on the eastern front.

These forts are northeast of the Bolivian army base at Villa Montes, key to the rich oil fields in the Bolivian Chaco and Bolivia proper—recognized Bolivian territory.

From there the line stretches loosely down to the Pilcomayo river, southeast of Villa Montes—the western front.

On the western front, for 72 hours field guns of both armies had been thundering in preparation for a battle for Fort D'Orbigny, the last big Bolivian stronghold between the Paraguayans and Villa Montes.

Dispatches indicated that the Bolivian resistance was strengthening and the prospect was for a battle of major importance.

"The mobilization is our reply to Paraguay's claims of victory," President Luis Tejada Sorzano of Bolivia told the United Press correspondent at La Paz.

"It means that the country as a unit is going into the war. It is a complete mobilization of our energies."

The mobilization will put at the government's disposal the classes of from 1911 to 1936 and the territorial guard.

L. S. U. PRESIDENT HANGED IN EFFIGY

BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 10.—(UP)—Louisiana State University's campus today was guarded to prevent a threatened wave of "hanging."

Twice Dr. James Monroe Smith, president of the university, was hanged in effigy, but Major Troy Middleton, commandant of the cadets, promised that "there would be no third time."

After the second "execution" in effigy late Saturday night, Major Middleton "called out the guards," and ordered the arrest of any student who attempt the third "hanging."

Students at the university have opposed a censorship on the university's student newspaper, the Reville, ordered by Senator Huey P. Long.

Twenty-six students were suspended after the staff of the Reville resigned.

MILITARY TRAINING FIGHT CARRIED ON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(UP)—The fight for elimination of compulsory military training in state universities was renewed today by the Conference on Civil Liberties, comprised of 23 liberal and labor organizations.

The U. S. supreme court last week upheld the validity of the compulsory military training rule and the California conference urged congress to amend the law.

5000 FOREIGN SOLDIERS TO MARCH INTO SAAR BASIN BY CHRISTMAS AS PEACE FORCE

VOELKLINGEN, Saar Territory, Dec. 10.—(UP)—The march of 5,000 foreign soldiers into this little territory before Christmas may change the Saar plebiscite from the most dangerous programmed event on the European calendar to a potential force for peace, it was indicated today.

When the League of Nations council Saturday invited Great Britain, Italy, the Netherlands and Sweden to send soldiers to police the territory until after result of the Jan. 13 vote is made public, every man and woman in the Saar who wants peace was thankful.

Until the decision to send the International force was made there had been the gravest fear that there was the making of a future war in the plebiscite.

France was ready to send soldiers into the Saar—at the League of Nations' order—upon the slightest sign of trouble.

There was fear that Nazi hotbeds across the German border, acting against the orders and wishes of the German government, might provide the cause.

Hence soldiers of the international army, when they march in within the next two weeks, will come as protectors of world peace.

The troops will be here during two tense periods. First there is the period, calculated to last three or four days, between the plebiscite vote and the announcement of its result after the ballots have been counted. Second, the period between the League of Nations decision as to the Saar's fate and consolidation of a new regime.

The 770,000 inhabitants of this 738-square-mile territory who are of voting age will decide:

1. Whether to return to German nationality.

2. Whether to remain under League of Nations rule as they have been for 15 years.

3. To become French.

The plebiscite was provided by the Versailles treaty, which allotted the territory to France for exploitation in compensation for the destruction of French coal mines by the German army in the World war.

HUNGARY AND JUGO SLAVIA NEAR ACCORD

Agree to Solution Drafted by Anthony Eden of England; Council Meets

DECISION IS EXPECTED

Great Powers Intervene to Quell Talk of War and Peace Apparently Near

GENEVA, Dec. 10.—(UP)—The great powers intervened successfully tonight to quell talk of war between Yugoslavia and Hungary.

Strenuous efforts and strong pressure were required to calm the rising passions of middle Europe.

During an intermission at the session of the council of the league of nations, at which a challenge of war was flung across the table by Nicholas Titulescu of Roumania, Yugoslavia and Hungary accepted a compromise solution drafted by Anthony Eden of Great Britain; Baron Pompeo Aloisi of Italy and Pierre Laval of France.

The council was to meet at 10:30 p. m. to approve a draft of the compromise, and a decision was expected by midnight.

Eden, Aloisi and Laval, striking desperately to calm the belligerent nations, involving Czechoslovakia, Roumania, Bulgaria, Greece and Turkey as well as the two principals, held a secret meeting with Bogoljub Jevtic of Yugoslavia and Coloman De Kanya of Hungary in a side room. The latter were persuaded to accept a solution divided as follows:

1. A general statement of the various aspects of the case.

2. An invitation to Hungary to pursue an investigation of individual responsibility for terrorism in that country, inasmuch as general responsibility for terrorism has not yet been determined.

3. A recommendation for a general international convention against terrorism, as proposed earlier in the day by Laval.

DR. DAFOE VISITS CITY OF NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(UP)—The country doctor who brought the Dionne quintuplets into the world, now in New York to see the sights, marveled today over the beloved babies instead of sky-scrapers.

Dr. Allan R. Dafoe, a shrewd, modest little man, arrived yesterday on his first extensive trip in 24 years. He saw the famous skyline, but turned aside to talk to the mate of the ferry boat about children. Even in teeming Times Square Dr. Dafoe appeared only mildly interested. But if someone mentioned "his babies," his face lit up with pride.

"Very nice," he commented after his first subway ride and then he was back on his all-important subject. The quintuplets' worst crisis, for example, was the whole two weeks after they were born.

"They're all identical twins," he said proudly. "And they're very pretty babies and very lively. They're healthy, too."

OLD AGE CLUB PROTESTS FEE ON SCHOOL USE

A protest against including Townsend Clubs in the rule recently established by the Santa Ana board of education to charge all organizations using school buildings for meetings an amount sufficient to cover the cost of lights and other expenses, was announced today in the form of a resolution passed by the club headed by Charles E. Dixon as president and R. J. Haines, as secretary, covering the district between Fairview and Edinger streets, and between Main street and the west city limit.

The resolution brought forth the comment from school authorities that apparently the Townsend club was under a misunderstanding of the board's action in adopting a minimum $2 charge for the use of schools for meetings.

"The resolution," said City Superintendent Frank Henderson, "infers that some organizations are charged the fee while others are not. Such is not the case, unless it should be meetings of Parent-Teacher associations, which we regard as a school function. All other organizations are treated alike."

"We differentiate only between kinds of meetings, not organizations, except as mentioned. The $2 fee is charged for meetings free to the public. For meetings where admission is charged or a collection taken we make higher charges. The only reason the $2 fee is charged for free meetings, is to cover the expense of lights, janitor service, etc."

The Townsend club resolution had expressed an understanding that the $2 fee was charged "for meetings of such organizations as ours, and different charges for other kinds of organization meetings."

The resolution follows: "Whereas: We are advised that the Board of Education of Santa Ana has placed a charge of $2 per night for meetings of such organizations as ours and different charges for other kinds of organization meetings; and

"Whereas: We do not question the rights and merits of making charges for some classes of organizations but we believe that our organization is one of a character for which no charge should be made; and

"Whereas: While this Townsend club at present does not meet in a school building, we may desire to do so at a later date and we resent the fact that if we did and for the clubs which do we should have to pay rental for so doing; and

"Whereas: We, as taxpayers, paid for and maintain these school buildings and our meetings are held for humanitarian purposes for the benefit not only of taxpayers but for all citizens and by which no individual is making a profit; therefore be it

"Resolved, by the Townsend Old Age Revolving Pension club in the district from Fairview to Edinger streets, and from Main street to west city limits, that we hereby protest the charge made by the board of education for meetings of our clubs in school buildings; and be it also

"Resolved, that copies of these resolutions be spread on the minutes of our club, sent to the board of education and to the press."

WAR THREAT IS HURLED ACROSS LEAGUE TABLE

from their territory if the League of Nations does not satisfy Yugoslavia, it was reported here today.

A plan for the Entente nations to leave the League of Nations has been considered, but was abandoned on the insistence of Dr. Edvard Benes of Czechoslovakia.

The Little Entente comprises Yugoslavia, Roumania and Czechoslovakia. The Balkan Entente comprises Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, Turkey and Greece.

Manifestos ordering 2,500,000 men to take the oath of loyalty to 11-year-old King Peter were posted in the streets today and were regarded by many as a trial mobilization plan.

The order came as the government announced that expulsion of Hungarians had ceased.

The 2,500,000—out of a total population of 14,000,000—are army reservists between the ages of 22 and 50 and soldiers of the regular army.

They must take the oath by next Sunday, the day before the anniversary of the birth of King Alexander, Peter's father, whose assassination led to the Yugoslavian-Hungarian crisis.

The reservists must go to designated military centers to take the oath, and thus will give an idea of mobilization possibilities.

FEAR TRIO LOST IN SACRAMENTO RIVER

MARTINEZ, Cal., Dec. 10.—(UP)—Fear that three Oakland men, who set out Friday from Crockett for Isleton in a 24-foot motorboat, may have perished in the waters of the Sacramento river were expressed here today after a two-day search.

V. E. Barnhart, 805 Broadway, Oakland, reported to the Contra Costa county sheriff's office that T. F. McMillen, 41, H. L. Argersinger, 43, 1907 75th avenue, Oakland, and Robert Rhoades, 28, 12th avenue and Estuary, Oakland, disappeared after they set out Friday for Crockett.

NAVY REPORT SAYS PERSONNEL TOO LOW

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(UP)—The navy's personnel is below the "safety point," Admiral W. H. Standley, chief of naval operations, said today in his annual report to Secretary of the Navy Claude A. Swanson.

The admiral said the present personnel was about 78.5 per cent of normal, whereas 85 per cent was considered the lowest minimum for safety. The outstanding need at the present time is for more men.

WILL ROGERS says:
SANTA MONICA, Dec. 10. (To the Editor of The Register:—) Notre Dame popped in here and started heaving 55-yard passes and 60-yard kicks. Wait till the Irish Free State hears she has a guy named Shakespeare playing with those Irish. Notre Dame lost their great coach and their great president, but Father O'Hara and Elmer Layden are worthy successors. One more year and they will be right at the top again. A great school, and a great spirit.

The war news today mostly concerns Italy and France. That's one thing about European arguments, the trouble is never between the two nations most concerned. It's always among those who want to make it their business.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

CALL NEW BIDS TODAY ON BAY DREDGING WORK

Bids for the dredging of eight and a half million cubic yards of sand and material from the floor of Newport Bay were re-advertised today, by Major H. H. Stickney, United States District Engineer in Los Angeles. All new bids for the work must be in Major Stickney's office by next Monday, when they will be opened.

New specifications have been made on the job, since the government turned down all old bids as being too much over the engineers' estimate for the job. Under the new specifications the United States engineering department will do the dredging work at the harbor entrance. The Standard Dredging company's low bid of November 15 was for $1,122,634.90.

This bid and a higher one submitted by the Hydraulic Dredging company of Los Angeles were turned down by Major General Edwin Markham of the United States Army Engineers, as being more than 25 per cent above government estimates, which came to $788,364.07.

It was announced that the government will do the work if the new bids are not satisfactory. The Robt-Connelly company is proceeding with work on the new breakwaters at the harbor entrance.

Liners bound for New York reported they were running behind schedule. The Britannic, the Cameronia and the Ansonia, all from British ports, were expected to arrive tomorrow, 24 to 30 hours late.

The Majestic was expected to arrive late tomorrow, and the steamers Paris and Washington reported that heavy seas and winds were delaying their progress.

Mount Washington, N. H., where the temperature dropped to 15 below, was one of the coldest spots in the country today. Northfield, Vt., was the second coldest spot in New England, recording 8 below.

In Boston, the temperature has been under 20 above zero since Friday night, and below freezing since Thursday night. This was Boston's third coldest December 10 on record.

STATE TO PURCHASE SEARS POINT ROAD

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Dec. 10.—(UP)—Final approval of plans to purchase the Sears Point toll road for $418,000 and make it part of the state highway system has been voted by the California Highway commission.

The road, owned by the Sears Point Toll Road company, has been in operation since 1928. It will be improved by the state and opened to free use of the public, serving as a feeder to the Golden Gate bridge.

The toll road is 10.2 miles long, extending from Sears Point to the Napa-San Rafael highway and crosses three toll bridges. The purchase price will be paid in installments extending over a period of five years.

Whiskey Bottle Breaks Car Glass

One of the evils of liquor, so far overlooked, is the danger of having auto windows broken by flying whiskey bottles.

Such a peculiar case came to light yesterday when Dr. E. F. Bruning, 1521 North Main street, called police to investigate a suspected bullet hole in the left front window of his automobile. Although the hole in the glass looked as if it might have been made by a bullet, a piece of green glass was found on the running board of the car.

Dr. Bruning then remembered that his car was parked Saturday night on Broadway and a search there resulted in the finding of a broken whiskey bottle, which apparently had been thrown from a passing car against the Bruning machine.

ALCOHOL DEATH TOTAL REACHES 18; FIVE DYING

The paralysis then became general, breathing labored and the victim died gasping for air.

Post-mortem examinations showed corrosive nature of the poison, degenerative changes in the brain structure, distended blood vessels and swollen nerve bundles.

Police searched all North End rooming houses, finding several bodies.

The habitual drinker of denatured alcohol, purchasable for approximately 25 cents a pint at any drug store, are known as "dehorners" and the potion as "dehorn." The "dehorn" usually blends the alcohol with water and gulps it down. Some of the less hardy drinkers blend it with milk, which is supposed to counteract the poison.

The fact that most of the victims were "down-and-outers" will not prevent vigorous investigation of the case, Detective Captain John Keegan said. Meanwhile a score of addicts were held in jail for their own safety.

46 MILLIONAIRES PAY INCOME TAXES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(UP)—Forty-six millionaires, 26 more than in 1932, paid nearly $26,000,000 in federal income taxes last year the bureau of internal revenue reported today.

The 46, income tax returns showed, paid 7 per cent of the total personal income tax. In the peak 1929 prosperity year 513 persons were listed with annual incomes of more than $1,000,000.

Million dollar incomes in 1933 more than doubled those of 1932 notwithstanding a decline in incomes of all Americans to the lowest level in 18 years. Bureau figures showed that taxpayers' income in 1933 fell to $10,845,653,532 from $11,185,499,309 in 1932.

Personal income tax returns numbered 3,660,105, listing incomes in 1933 was $2963, and tax liability of $372,967,761. Average net income in 1933 was $2962, and tax liability $101.90.

HEAVY SEAS BATTER BEACH COLONY AT WEST NEWPORT; MANY HOMES ARE DAMAGED

(Pictures of damage done are on first page of the second section)
Mountainous waves and slashing rip tides which smashed with sudden fury at West Newport and the Orange county coast line Saturday morning again pounded and piled their way inland yesterday, leaving wrecked homes, denuded beach and debris in their wake as residents of West Newport's beach front colony hastily removed belongings to safety.

Close to a dozen homes were wrecked or seriously damaged as the raging seas rose suddenly and smashed their way past temporary barricades thrown up in their path. Water which poured over the peninsula at Balboa and Newport filled the streets with sand and mud, and for a few hours virtually flooded the city.

Furnishings Moved
Scenes reminiscent of war pictures from Europe during the world war were reenacted yesterday, as beach residents piled furniture and belongings on the sands behind their homes and hurriedly carried them inland. Emergency crews of workmen joined in salvational efforts, carried on by hand as it was impossible to get trucks through the sand choked area. Thousands of eight-seers were stopped by police at the state highway.

Four homes were wrecked by the waves Saturday morning, and yesterday's damage toll included two homes completely demolished, and four others seriously damaged. The four-room bungalow of H. J. Kearney, at 4300 Ocean Front, was smashed by combers yesterday, and within a few moments reduced to kindling wood as the breakers rolled over it. The nearby bungalow of S. P. Erickson, at 5008 Ocean Front was damaged Saturday and reduced to splintered wreckage yesterday.

House Front Smashed
A high comber smashed in the front of the home belonging to Mrs. Grace DeCourcy, at 5300 Ocean Front, and swept through the house, wrecking furniture and tearing away walls in its mad dash. Other damaged homes belonged to J. T. Brooks, V. A. Gahler, A. B. Merriam, W. J. Blackburn, Clara Brazelton and A. Mitchell, all on Ocean Front within a radius of five or six blocks.

The summer home of E. F. Hayden, which had been moved to a spot of supposed safety two blocks inland, was caught in the path of the combers and tipped over on its side and flooded.

A section of beach nearly eight miles long suffered from the onslaught of the waters. Pacific Electric tracks were washed out or covered with several feet of sand as the ocean subsided. The beach colony at West Newport is virtually gone as a result of the sea's rampage. For a distance of 30 blocks nearly all homes have been removed to safety or have succumbed to the tides, as the phenomenal seas which began early in September recurred.

Streets Cleared
Crews of workmen were busy yesterday removing debris from the streets of Balboa, the result of waters pouring over the peninsula Saturday. In the Balboa business district sand bag barricades before the fronts of stores and buildings bore witness to the effect of the waters, which swirled into the streets, in some places several feet deep. The Balboa beach front playground rested in a damaged condition in a foot or two of water.

Traffic Detoured
All traffic through Newport yesterday was detoured along the Coast Highway to the Arches, as water on the highways made passage dangerous. Along the coast, Pacific Electric buses were detoured away from the Coast Highway. Little damage was reported outside of West Newport, which again bore the brunt of the mysterious outbreak of Father Neptune.

Geologists are as much at a loss for an explanation of the ocean's antics as ever. Many attribute the gigantic rollers to a storm far at sea, while others maintain that distant earthquakes could cause it. The phenomenon seems confined to the basin lying between the mainland and Catalina island. One theory is that a shift in the Japan current has caused tidal fluctuations that causes the damage.

While no more houses fell into the sea today up until noon, all residences from Thirty-sixth street to Fifty-fifth street have been damaged to some extent. The ground swells continued their pounding of the area today and fear was expressed that other houses would fall victim to the unusual current.

C. W. Campbell was fined $15 for drunkenness by Police Judge J. G. Mitchell Saturday and promised to pay later.

CONTEST OVER GRAND JURY ELECTION VOTE IN COURT TODAY

The recount of ballot in Anaheim township, by which Sam Snodgrass seeks to upset the reelection of Constable Ed Marion, who has a lead of just two votes at the recent election, received a temporary setback today when Marion's counsel successfully challenged Snodgrass's recount petition on the ground that it lacked specific charges.

After sustaining the demurrer of Attorney T. L. McFadden and George Holden, representing Marion, Judge G. W. Freeman, of Riverside, who is hearing the case, recessed the hearing until this afternoon to permit Attorney William P. Webb, attorney for Snodgrass, to amend his petition.

Attorney McFadden, who argued the demurrer before the court, pointed out, first, that Snodgrass had petitioned for a recount, instead of filing a contest, and that the law makes no provision for a recount, except as incidental to a contest. He contended that the Snodgrass petition did not meet the requirements of a contest petition, because it failed to state specific instances in which votes were allegedly counted. He cited the supreme court decision in the contest of former Mayor George E. Cryer's election in Los Angeles, which he argued was directly in point and almost identical with the case at hand.

Judge Freeman upheld this view, and said that specific instances must be cited; otherwise, he pointed out, any election could be contested.

Given opportunity to amend his petition, Webb stated that he would cite instances in three or four precincts, in which votes were allegedly counted or rejected.

Formally launching its investigation of Newport Beach election fraud charges today, the county grand jury examined four witnesses during the morning session, then resumed its investigation this afternoon after the noon recess, with another group of witnesses awaiting its attention.

James R. Jones, aged Newport Beach resident; his son-in-law, H. L. Harris; Mrs. Eunice Phillips, election judge in Newport Beach precinct No. 1, and D. H. Betten, district attorney's investigator, were witnesses who appeared before the grand jury this forenoon.

While secrecy covered the proceedings behind closed doors of the jury room, the appearance of this group of witnesses was inferred to be connected with the charge that the name of Jones had been forced to the roster of voters at Newport Beach, in connection with the alleged fraudulent city election of last April 9.

Rumors were current today that another matter to occupy the early attention of the grand jury would be charge that Everett H. Durkee, resident of Costa Mesa, had voted in the Newport Beach election.

Durkee, residing at 428 Old County Road, Costa Mesa, had registered in 1932 in Newport Beach precinct No. 2, it was said. When he came to vote in the general election that year, he was challenged, but was finally allowed to vote, because it was a general election; but was warned to immediate transfer his registration to his home precinct.

At the Newport beach election last April, it was reported, Durkee again went to vote in Precinct No. 2, having failed to transfer. He was again challenged, so City

Clerk Frank Rinehart gave him a certificate of transfer from precinct No. 2, to Precinct No. 1, also in Newport Beach, where Durkee was said to have cast his vote, according to charges said to have been outlined to the grand jury.

Police News
Ascencion Ramirez, 30, charged with illegal entry, and Marino Barcaro, 30, Anaheim, charged with disturbing the peace, were booked at the jail Saturday by Anaheim police.

Anton Carmona, 43, Delhi, concluding a 71-2 day sentence for drunkenness, was rebooked at the county jail on immigration charges.

Donald Wiedman, 705 West Third street, and Allen Flagg, 414 South Birch street, had their bicycles stolen over the weekend, according to police files.

PESSIMISM TOWARDS AFFAIRS UNJUSTIFIED BY FACTORS AT WORK, IN OPINION OF CLASS

There has been too much pessimism regarding both political and social welfare, in view of existing conditions and growing developments, which point to an encouraging outlook, according to sentiment of the Forum class of the First Congregational church, as expressed in a resolution adopted yesterday.

In presenting the resolution, W. A. Maxwell Burke, leader of the class, declared that the matters pointed out are evidence that affairs are not so bad as painted. "There has been too much indulgence in pessimism regarding both political and social welfare," he said.

An awakening of the spirit of sacrifice; evidence of a latent moral force; good qualities developed by the depression; a trend toward liberalism in politics and other factors were noted in the resolution, which follows:

"RESOLVED, that it is the consensus of the Forum Class that the following are self-evident truths and are reasons for encouragement:

"1. Business men are beginning to be willing to sacrifice.

"2. The schools are in the main governed by a real democracy and are reaching the adult population.

"3. Church denominations are more pronounced on social justice and peace.

"4. The press is legally free, even if controlled.

"5. The rank and file of the people still have some means of expression.

"6. Liberalism is acknowledged as a thing to be reckoned with.

"7. The danger of the unequal distribution of wealth is being recognized by those at the top.

"8. The depression has developed self-help and a feeling of solidarity of those in distress as well as a cooperative spirit.

"9. Projects like the TVA furnish great promise as object lessons.

"10. The fact that the Constitution has found vigorous and organized defenders is proof that changes are needed.

"11. Republican party leaders demand that their party become liberal.

"12. An intelligent people is thinking as never before.

"13. Provision for care of the helpless was never recognized as thoroughly as it is now.

"14. It is pretty thoroughly demonstrated that the welfare of the mass is of more importance than the luxury of the individual.

"15. That the organization of the League for Decency in moving pictures and its support by people generally is typical of a latent moral force.

"16. The emotion of sympathy for the distressed has had a beneficial reflex action.

"17. That the depression and efforts to overcome it has developed a splendid self-control and patience.

"18.—That despite adverse conditions the cultural and intellectual interests of the people continue.

"19. That both social and natural science are free and progressive.

"20. That progress of civilization and human betterment cannot be stopped and that, therefore, a better social system will be evolved."

Christian Science

"The Lord is the true God, he is the living God, and an everlasting king. . . . He hath made the earth by his power, he hath established the world by his wisdom, and hath stretched out the heavens by his discretion." These words of Jeremiah were the Golden Text yesterday at the Santa Ana First Church of Christ, Scientist. The subject of the lesson-sermon was "God the Only Cause and Creator."

Among the Bible selections were Paul's words, from the Acts, "God that made the world and all things therein, seeing that he is Lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temples made with hands; neither is worshipped with men's hands, as though he needed any thing, seeing he giveth to all life, and breath, and all things. . . . for in him we live, and move, and have our own being; as certain also of your own poets have said, For we are also his offspring."

A passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, stated, "To direct thought of false trusts and material evidences in order that the spiritual facts of being may appear,—this is the great attainment by means of which we shall sweep away the false and give place to the true."

SHOWS CHRIST AS SAVIOR, NOT HERE TO JUDGE

Jesus came into the world as a Savior, not to punish or condemn the world for its sin, said the Rev. William Schmoeck, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church, in his sermon yesterday on "Christ, the Shepherd and King."

He said, in part:

"Jesus Christ came into the world, not to judge and to condemn, but to seek and to save all who believe in Him. Before His coming the Lord had sent shepherds to care for His flock, the patriarchs, the long line of priests from the house of Aaron, and the prophets. But these shepherds had left much to be desired in the performance of their duties, very few of them being truly faithful. By proclaiming their own 'man-made' doctrine they had 'scattered the flock, and driven them away!'"

"Moved by compassion and a shepherd's love the Lord decides to help. He says: 'I will gather the remnant of My flock out of all countries whither I have driven them, and will bring them again to their folds.' He will set up shepherds over them which will feed them; faithful shepherds who will nourish them with the Word of Life, and 'they shall be fruitful and increase.'"

"However, to accomplish this, a gracious and wonderful act of God is required. He calls our attention to this when He says: 'Behold, the days come, that I will raise unto David a righteous Branch, and a King shall reign and prosper, and shall execute judgment and justice in the earth.'"

"One is to be born of the lineage of David, but He is to be a righteous Branch, not a sinful descendant of a sinful father. How this may be, we see from the name of David's Son, viz.: 'And this is his name whereby he shall be called, THE LORD OUR RIGHTeousNESS.' His name shall be Jehovah. This Branch of David is at the same time the true God. By a divine conception Mary, the daughter of David, gave birth to the holy Son of God."

"The office and work of the God-man Jesus Christ is to reign and prosper and to execute judgment and justice in the earth. As King He is concerned about the welfare of His people. He must protect them against their enemies. That He has done. He entered into conflict with the 'strong man armed' and vanquished him, and He executes judgment and justice in the earth, not only will He punish the transgressors, but He will justify His people before God by the forgiveness of their sins on the strength of His own vicarious atonement and the satisfaction which He has rendered unto God and which the believers accept and apply unto themselves by faith. Thus through the blessing of the Shepherd and King Judah shall be saved, and Israel shall dwell safely, i. e. the Church of God shall prosper."

SAYS CHRISTIANS READY TO APPEAL TO CONGRESS AGAINST COMPULSORY TRAINING RULE

ORANGE, Dec. 10.—Declaring that "Christians who have conscientious convictions against war have not changed these convictions," Dr. James Edwin Dunning, pastor of the Methodist church, spoke last night from the topic, "Has the Supreme Court Said the Last Word About Conscientious Objectors to Military Training?"

Dr. Dunning was president last year of the social service commission of the Southern California conference of the Methodist church and he appointed the committee which carried the issue of military training in colleges to the supreme court.

Reviewing the case, which grew out of the request of two Methodist boys, on the grounds of conscientious objection, to be released from compulsory training at the University of California at Los Angeles, Dr. Dunning declared that "they (Christians) will strive to obtain from Congress a law that will prevent any state from making military training compulsory and they will continue to appeal to state authorities to make it optional."

He said in part: "In 1928, by the pact of Paris, the nations of the world solemnly renounced war, and pledged themselves never again to resort to it to settle their disputes. Reaffirming previous announcements, the general conference in 1932 further declared:

"We believe it to be the duty of the churches to give moral support to those individuals who hold conscientious scruples against participation in military training or military service."

"We petition the government of the United States to grant to members of the Methodist Episcopal church who may be conscientious objectors to war the same exemption from military service as has long been granted to members of the Society of Friends and other similar religious organizations. Similarly, we petition all educational institutions which require military training to excuse from such training any student belonging to the Methodist Episcopal church who has conscientious scruples against it. We earnestly petition the government of the United States to cease supporting all military training in civilian educational institutions."

"The youth of Methodism has taken the church at its word, and in Maryland, Ohio, California, and elsewhere, earnest Methodist young men have asked for the exemption to which they believed their conscientious scruples entitled them."

"The Methodists are not alone in their position. The general assembly of the Presbyterian church in 1934 declared: 'That Christians owe an allegiance to the kingdom of God that is superior to loyalty to their own country, and that in any matter in which the laws of their country conflict with the commands of God, they must assert their duty and right to obey God rather than men; that Christians cannot give their support to war as a method of carrying on international conflict. And furthermore, we announce our support of all conscientious objectors to war, and we hereby demand in their behalf from all educational institutions requiring military training that such objectors be excused from classes in military instruction without loss in academic standing or official censure of any kind.'"

"The supreme court has declined to disallow the right to make military training compulsory in land grant institutions. It did not say that such institutions must make it compulsory. In fact, in Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Oregon, it is now optional. Any state may make it optional."

"These state institutions are supported by all the taxpayers. It is not enough to say, 'When the student, on grounds of conscience, is unable to meet the requirements of the institution, he is under full liberty to leave.' We insist that the state has no moral right to deprive him of the benefits of its tax-supported institutions by imposing a test which has no natural relation to educational and to which his highest ethical and moral ideals are repugnant."

WASHINGTON
By Paul Mallon

POTATO

The word has been passed down the line inside that President Roosevelt has handed the hot speakership potato over to Vice President Garner.

It seems that some of the candidates for the speakership have been getting around to the point where they were just a little annoying to the White House. The speakership is the No. 3 job in the government, socially at least, and the boys who want it want it very badly.

One by one, they have found excuses for dropping in to see Mr. Roosevelt about something or other not remotely connected with the speakership. The result is always a flurry of publicity prestige for the speakership candidates, which is just what they want, but not what Mr. Roosevelt wants.

One particular candidate was less subtle than the rest. He took up 45 minutes one day not long ago, weeping about his speakership troubles on Mr. Roosevelt's shoulder. Another had to be hoodwinked out of appearing in public with Mr. Roosevelt recently.

JOB

That is why you saw Mr. Garner awoken from a six months' sleep last Thursday with an announcement that the White House would have nothing to do with the speakership contest. Of course, Mr. Garner neglected to say matters were now in his hands, but Mr. Garner is often forgetful about little things like that. He will let others give that out.

His job ostensibly will be to keep the White House out of embarrassments. If any of the candidates wants to get subtle or to weep, he can try it on Cactus Jack, who has the reputation of being the hardest man in town.

If his job is to go any deeper than that, and promote the candidacy of any one man, you will never find it out until the job is done. Garner works alone. He considers will naturally assume that Garner may get in a good word somewhere for his Texas pal, Sam Rayburn, but that is rather a delicate matter to talk about now.

VICE PRESIDENCY

The truth is that Mr. Garner is going to be vice president-in-charge-of-holding-hot-potatoes in congress for Mr. Roosevelt from here on. That means, at least they have found something for a vice president to do.

No better man for the job could be found. Garner had 30 years' experience in the house. He knows the congressional mind and the way to handle it. He was an unusually adroit back-stage worker as Democratic floor leader and speaker. Furthermore, he knows the business of legislating as thoroughly as anyone in either house of congress.

PRESSURE

Very little has got out about the house organization brawl, but it has been accompanied by more than the usual amount of phlegm.

The funniest development along that line lately is the hint dropped anonymously in many of the highest places here that Mr. Roosevelt should have as house leader a certain conservative from his home state. Officials gave no attention to it, at first, but lately they have been encountering it every time they turned around, even inside the White House. They started investigating to see who was doing all the sub-rosa promotion.

Their tracer indicated that the whispered pressure came from one or two men who happened to be officials of an organization against the New Deal.

Apparently the officials were acting on their own, and not for their organization. Their activity has been squelched.

LEGAL TACKLE

There is more to law than you will find in the law books. Last week in a certain court, a lawyer arose with a copy of this column (Nov. 27). It contained the story about Sec. Big Tim Callahan, ex-Yale center, using football psychology on bucket shops, and told how he tackled the job.

The defense attorney interpreted it as meaning Callahan had physically tackled his client.

The case had to be delayed until Callahan could be called from New Orleans to testify that there is a difference between football psychology and football violence.

The fact that the client was whole should have been proof enough.

FINANCING

The heavy over-subscription of the treasury's last financing appears to have been no more padded than usual. The banks always ask for more than they expect to get.

It shows there is still a good market for long term government bonds, although bankers prefer the short terms. The short term notes were over-subscribed seven times and the bonds five times.

There is plenty of idle capital in banks.

NOTES

Newsmen are calling the new White House executive office "the house with a thousand doors." There are three or more doors to every important room. It would be an ideal place to play I-spy.

RFC-er's wonder why it is that fifty to sixty million dollars released from closed banks is still unclaimed. For instance, in Cleveland there are four millions, in Detroit seventeen millions. The RFC is anxious to get the money into circulation.

A prominent congressional lame duck is angling for the $7,500-a-year post of assistant secretary of war for air.

The best titter of the week is a report circulated only inside the NRA by the consumers' advisory board, advocating lower wages in the construction industry. (Copyright, 1934, by Paul Mallon)

NEW YORK
By James McMullen
CARRIED

You may have noticed signs of budding disagreement in the huddles of president's all-American team. Business is resuming outspoken criticism of the quarter-back's signals and urging that they be changed to suit its own ideas. It would be hard to find a program more completely at variance with New Deal policies than the platform evolved by the National Association of Manufacturers as its contribution towards helping the common cause.

There are several reasons why big business is feeling its oats and becoming a lot franker in stating its demands. One is the increased sense of security that comes with rising earnings. Another is the conviction that Washington's drift towards the right can be accelerated by firm insistence that the time has come to cancel the New Deal features which business dislikes. This psychology is fed by concessions made to date. Perhaps the most important factor of all is the widespread belief among business men that the radical menace is greatly exaggerated. You hear it said that Mr. Roosevelt has an "excessive fear" of radicalism and that there's no reason he should be so sensitive about stepping on left wing toes.

Those who figure this way argue that the average American worker is bound to be conservative because he owns property in one form or another and can therefore be counted on as a staunch bulwark against efforts to put radical dreams into practice.

But many of the best-posted New York sources disagree with this diagnosis. They point out that millions of workers have lost their property (whether in real estate, securities, savings accounts or some other form) and are determined that they will not let old principles they blame for their losses shall never return to power. They add that such a casual dismissal of radical sentiment as impotent also completely ignores the element of disaffected youth—constantly growing in numbers and disillusioned as to its prospects under the established system. Some of the outstanding leaders of finance and business—regardless of politics—are firmly convinced that the President isn't overestimating radical dangers a bit and that the only safeguard for conservative interests is genuine New Deal cooperation.

One of them remarks: "We not only have to figure out the best way to cooperate effectively but we have to carry reluctant associates along on our backs. In some ways that's the hardest job of all."

PAINLESS

The banks displayed their hunger for the latest government security issues in no uncertain manner. Quite a number of them went to the unprecedented length of entering subscriptions which amounted to more than their capital and surplus combined. The Treasury gently rebuked such institutions and asked them to cut down their bids before allotments were made. Of course these banks didn't expect to get anything like the amount they bid for—but don't think the padding was just for appearances. They simply figured the bigger the application the more notes they would get in whatever proportion the allotment was made. Their appetite was authentic.

One angle was that bankers unanimously expect still cheaper interest on subsequent Treasury offerings. So the more they can buy now the greater the yield on their investment in federal obligations. This is getting to be quite a factor. Lower money rates are beginning to raise how with bank earnings. If it continues there may have to be some more dividend cuts (the Bank of Manhattan set the style last week).

Informed sources understood the Treasury is still aiming for long-term money at 2 1/2 per cent—or even less on a premium basis. The quicker the government reaches that point (it may be as soon as March if Congress doesn't run amuck) the quicker investment funds will be forced into other channels more directly stimulative to industry. Keen observers remark that the Treasury has already taken several clever—and painful—steps in that direction.

BAROMETER

Some folks wonder why the government should borrow nearly a billion dollars new money now instead of using its cash reserve of more than two and a half billion.

Shrewd New Yorkers call that reserve a quiet and inconspicuous barometer of the government's state of mind. They say it's being conserved as a safety measure as long as Federal authorities believe there's any possible chance of an emergency—just as a prudent corporation hangs onto its surplus in times of stress. Depleted reserves and a fractious Congress would create an uncomfortable situation. If Congress proves manageable on relief appropriations and monetary matters you may see much of the reserve spent next year to ease borrowing and taxes.

PENNEY STORE
HAS FINE LINE
OF YULE GIFTS

While with the individual, Christmas is a matter of concern for but a few weeks, with the J. C. Penney store it is a matter of concern for 12 months of the year, according to Manager F. A. Jones of the local store, who announced that at a large expenditure of energy and money the local store has been attractively redecorated and rearranged for the convenience of Christmas shoppers.

Jones pointed out that knowing the problem of selecting Christmas presents for the family is quite an individual problem, but playing Santa Claus to thousands of babies, young brothers, high school sisters, dads, mothers and grandparents is the task which confronts the hundred expert buyers of Penney's 1500 stores.

Calling attention to a few of the many articles which will make suitable gifts at Christmas time, Jones said:

"Every costume calls for a definite type and shade of hose. From our line of 'Ringless Gay-mode' hosiery the most discriminating buyer can select suitable hose to be worn for all occasions. In our selection of fine calf-skin purses will be found all the newest styles in lovely shapes, newly lined, fitted with mirrors, coin purses and zippers. Any woman would be pleased with such a gift. A complete line of 'Adonna' lingerie is displayed.

"This year our buyers have outdone themselves and the result is a wonderfully fine stock of novelties such as manure sets, perfumes and toiletries, dressing sets and handkerchiefs.

"In the linen department will be found many fancy bedspreads, beautifully bordered towels, fine hemstitched linen sets, woolen blankets and comforters all of the finest quality at the most reasonable prices possible.

"And for the men, one of the season's best gift buys—J. C. Penney's 'Towncraft' shirts, all sizes in the wanted patterns and colors. Neckties! Hundreds of them. Also for the men robes, gloves, brushed wool sweaters, house slippers and 'Armorfoot' hose and every man needs one of our Sportclad leather jackets for outdoor wear.

"This year our 'Mary-Lu' dolls are more beautiful than ever. Lovable babies with dimpled cheeks and arms and legs. Young lady dolls, too, with smart organdie dresses with bonnets to match.

"Penney's invites you to their Toyland, a whirl of action and color, trains, airplanes, tricycles, automobiles, wagons, skates and building toys, books, games and thousands of new things for the boys and girls. Whether you are ready to buy or not if you see something you especially want the Lay-Away plan is at your service. Just ask about it."

TEACHER RECEIVES
BURNS FROM FIRE

Mrs. Myrtle Star, 103 South Ross street and teacher of home economics at the Santa Ana High school, received painful first degree burns on the arms last night at 7:30 o'clock when a fire was started from cleaning fluid with which she was cleaning clothing.

About $50 damage was caused to the kitchen by the flames, which were extinguished by firemen.

First aid treatment was given Mrs. Star by firemen.

Guard and Kingland Macy. The first serious skirmish will take place at a New York City meeting called by Chase Mellon—to be addressed by Senators Borah and Nye. The liberals have no chance of gaining immediate control of party machinery—but they don't really want it yet. Their plan is to work up the rank and file of party opinion by constant guerrilla warfare with the object of reaching the saddle by 1936—which is when it will count.

Teddy Roosevelt's conversion indicates a significant backstage shift of sentiment. Those who should know say he still cherishes lofty ambitions.

STUBBORN

New York banks lost no time making the city a $15,000,000 relief loan against its nice new sales tax. They earnestly hope their prompt response will divert attention from the embarrassing proposal that they cut the reserve the city agreed to give them from 25 million to 11 million. They've already slashed it from 50 to 25 and are prepared to balk like the orneriest mule in Missouri if further concessions are asked. But they'd just as soon get into a public argument about it.

FUSSY

The Stock Exchange' scurrilous fussiness in surprising member activities reminds an observer of a bank merger some years ago where the new president called the officers of the merged institutions together and gave them prolonged and detailed instructions on how to handle routine matters. When he announced he was through one of the officers (who was to lose his job in the merger) jumped up and said: "No you're not. You forgot to tell them to be sure to put their trousers on tomorrow morning." Copyright, 1934, McClure Newspaper's Syn.

INFORMATION ON LIBRARIES GIVEN

Value of libraries, whether public, county or school, cannot be measured in terms of dollars and cents because they rank next to public schools as an educational medium and furnish a close tie-in between the schools and the developing movement for adult education, according to Miss Dorothy Wentz, Orange county librarian who spoke to members and guests of the League of Women Voters at their recent meeting in the Y. M. C. A.

Mrs. M. E. Geeting, head of the department of government in education, introduced the speaker and also gave many interesting facts concerning libraries. She explained that the Santa Ana Library board is comprised of five members appointed by the mayor. The policy of The Register in printing lists of new books and book reviews without charge was lauded.

Last year, she said, there were 383,574 books read in Santa Ana by adults and 99,539 by children.

Mrs. Ora K. Heine, led discussion on several other matters.

Two Stolen Cars
Found By Police

Two stolen automobiles were recovered by police over the weekend. One had been stripped and abandoned.

The auto of Trinidad Rangel, La Jolla camp, was stolen Saturday night on Fairlawn street and located at Santa Anita yesterday, stripped of many parts.

The machine of M. H. Wallace, of Anaheim, stolen yesterday, was found last night by Fullerton police.

POLITICAL PLAY
OPENS TOMORROW

PASADENA, Dec. 10.—The Pulitzer prize play, "Both Your Houses", will be seen for the first time in the west at the Pasadena Playhouse beginning tomorrow. Maxwell Anderson's sizzling attack on political chicanery won the coveted honor when it was produced by the New York Theater Guild last year by unanimous vote of the Pulitzer advisory board. Any play by one of the authors of "What Price Glory" and "Mary of Scotland" would be worthy of attention, and his latest is said to have all the pungency and finish of those hits.

Its chief character is Solomon Fitzmaurice, whose shady deeds provide laughter while pointing the serious side of the drama. "Both Your Houses" shows up various types of rogue who adopt politics as a racket. The play shows what lobbies are for, how selfish legislation is slipped through and how appropriations are turned into "pork barrels". Most of its action takes place in Washington.

The chief scalawag will be played by the comedian, George Reis. The feminine lead in "Both Your Houses" will be in the hands of Jean Inness, who in private life is the wife of Victor Jory.

MAN INJURED BY BULLET FROM GUN

Two young boys who were shooting a .22 caliber rifle in the Costa Mesa city dump yesterday afternoon are being sought by officers following an accident yesterday in which Primo Hernandez of Costa Mesa had his head grazed by a bullet which passed through his hat.

Mrs. G. Clark, living on Newport Beach boulevard near the dump, reported to Constable William Ponting and Deputy Sheriff G. F. McKelvey and James Workman that the boys left their bicycles near her house about 4 p. m. and entered the dump with a gun. Soon after, they ran to their bikes, dropped the gun and rushed off. Officers now have the weapon. In pursuit came Hernandez, who said he had been hit with a bullet.

Youth Sentenced
For Reel Theft

Edward Silk, 18, of Anaheim, was given a $50 fine or 25 days in jail when arraigned in the Anaheim justice court Saturday on petty theft charges. The youth was arrested by Deputy Sheriff James Ragan and admitted taking a fishing reel from the home of Donald Pannier of Anaheim. Unable to pay the fine, he was committed to the county jail by Judge Charles Kuchel.

ANN J. PHILBROOK
CALLED BY DEATH

Mrs. Ann J. Philbrook, 88, resident of Santa Ana for the past 12 years, died at the home of her son at 1402 West Eighth street, Saturday, following a short illness.

Born at Chelsea, Mass., she came to this city about 12 years ago, and since that time has divided her time among Laguna Beach, San Diego and this city. She attended the Sunday school and missionary society of Spurgeon M. E. church, South, and was a member of Sedgwick's Women's Relief Corps.

She is survived by one son, Frank E. Philbrook, and three granddaughters, Frances, Muriel and Charlotte Philbrook, all of Santa Ana.

Funeral services will be held from the chapel of the Harrell and Brown Funeral home, 116 West Seventeenth street, tomorrow, at 1:30 p. m., with the Rev. C. M. Aker, pastor of the Spurgeon Memorial church, officiating.

Interment will be in Fairhaven cemetery.

CALUMPT CAMP TO HOLD OPEN MEET

Calumpt camp and auxiliary, United Spanish War Veterans, will hold an open meeting tomorrow night at 8 p. m. in the K. of C. hall, it was announced today.

Veterans and auxiliary members were urged to attend the meeting and to bring a neighbor. Veterans of all posts and camps were cordially invited. There will be no charge for the evening's entertainment. Cards and dancing will be featured during the evening.

CANDY MAKING TO BE CLASS TOPIC

One of the most interesting sessions of the year is anticipated by the cooking class at the Gas company tomorrow when Margaret Stroum Lackland, director of the home service department of the Southern Counties Gas company, demonstrates how to make tasty and unusual candy for Christmas.

The entire session of the popular weekly cooking class tomorrow at 2 p. m. at the gas company offices on Second street, will be devoted to a demonstration of how to make such candies as pecan chews, date loaf, divinity fudge, candied fruit peels, popcorn brittle, lemon circles, peanut-orange candy, etc.

An unusual feature of the cooking class session tomorrow will be an old-fashioned taffy pull. Another feature will be the giving away of a box of the candy made in the demonstration.

Mrs. Lackland, who conducts the classes, extended a cordial invitation to all women interested in making their own Christmas candies to attend the meeting tomorrow.

RANCHER LOSES 22
CHICKENS AND BILL

Frank Vlasheart, rancher of Irvine, has learned to distrust red-headed women, especially if they are buying chickens.

According to a story told sheriff's officers Saturday, Vlasheart was visited by a party of five persons Saturday, including a woman with red hair. While she haggled over buying two chickens, the other two men and two women walked into the chicken pen and stole 22 Rhode Island Red hens.

To make matters worse, Vlasheart said that the woman short-changed him out of a $5 bill.

Deputies Sam Snodgrass, Walter Duncan, Ives Brown and Chief John Stanton of Tustin are investigating the case.

NEW CHURCH IS DEDICATED AT WINTERSBURG

WINTERSBURG, Dec. 10.—More than 700 were present yesterday as the new Wintersburg Japanese Presbyterian church was dedicated. The new building is the culmination of four years' effort by church members and interested persons in the Wintersburg district.

Donations amounting to $687.29 were made yesterday. The amount will be used for furnishings for the new building. Among those contributing were the Santa Ana Presbyterian church, through the Rev. O. Scott McFarland, Christian Endeavor and Epworth League Societies, Sunday school classes and members of the congregation of the Wintersburg church. In his dedicatory address the Rev. K. Kikuchi, pastor, said that "Go forward" has been the slogan of the congregation throughout the period of waiting for the building of the new church.

Each of the Japanese speakers at yesterday's services expressed deep appreciation for the interest and help of American churches in founding and assisting the local church, which has been in existence for 30 years. The Rev. B. H. Terasawa, San Francisco, who was the first missionary here, delivered an address. Charles Furuta, local business man, spoke briefly of the progress of the church since his baptism years ago.

Among the many other speakers on the afternoon's program were representatives of Presbyterian churches of the county, church officials from Los Angeles, and representatives of the Japanese young people of Wintersburg and the surrounding vicinity. Three former pastors of the local church, the Rev. Terasawa of San Francisco; the Rev. Paul Nakamura of Los Angeles; and the Rev. Watanabe of San Diego, were introduced.

Several pictures were given the new church, two by the Rev. Terasawa and one by the Garden Grove Japanese church, and one by the Anaheim Presbyterian church. Telegrams of congratulation were received from all over California. At the close of the meeting Japanese dainties and tea were served.

ARE YOU NERVOUS, WEAK?

Mrs. T. J. Garrett, 519 East 1st St., Colton, Calif., said: "I was so nervous and weak, I was a wreck. I had no appetite and was sleepless. I had no strength whatever, and my breath was very short. I took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and was soon feeling like a million dollars and was able to do all my work again."

Beach W.R.C. Hobby Show Is Success

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 10.—The first annual hobby show of the Women's Relief corps, held at the auditorium of Memorial hall Saturday, attracted several hundred visitors and proved one of the most unique and interesting entertainments ever held in this city.

Hobbies exhibited varied from a collection of more than 100 dolls by a little girl, Jeanne Tarbox, to a collection of a hundred antique bottles displayed by Mrs. Minnie Higgins, pioneer resident. Tam Vincent, who learned to do embroidery while a patient in a hospital, had a beautiful display. One doll in the Tarbox display was an importation from China and was over 200 years old. Mrs. Minnie Higgins had a bottle that contained three bottles inside of it.

Hours were spent by visitors to the hobby show examining the various quaint displays and the Women's Relief corps will at the urging of their friends, make the hobby show an annual event, it is said.

NEW ART SHOW OPENED BY LAGUNA BEACH ASSOCIATION

LAGUNA BEACH, Dec. 10.—Registering a good attendance was the formal opening yesterday afternoon of the December-January show of the Laguna Beach Art association at the galleries on Cliff Drive, for which event a tea had been arranged on the main floor. Among those present were a number of local artists, including some of the exhibitors, and several out-of-town visitors.

Mrs. William A. Griffith presided over the tea table, assisted by Miss Maud Robertson, Miss Virginia Woolley, Mrs. Mary Langley Herick, Mrs. J. A. Farrell, Mrs. Kurt Perrin, Miss Nell Coover, Mrs. Wheeler Davis and Miss Ida Griffith.

A record attendance, taxing seating accommodations of the main gallery, featured an illustrated lecture given Saturday night by Dr. H. B. Alexander, noted archeologist, connected with Scrapps college, Claremont, whose subject was "American Indian Painting". Dr. Alexander is an authority on Indian art and his presentation of the subject revealed not only a thorough knowledge but a sympathetic understanding of the American Indian efforts in the field of art. Particularly interesting among the exhibits used by the lecturer to illustrate his talk was a set of drawings depicting General Custer's famous fight at Little Big Horn on June 25, 1876, made by an Indian art student. Some of the samples of Indian paintings, shown by Dr. Alexander, revealed a striking similarity in style and composition to Japanese compositions. Questioned as to whether this similarity could be traced to a presumed race affinity, the speaker replied in the negative, explaining that it was a mere coincidence in expressing impressions.

TUSTIN, Dec. 10.—Annual election of officers and celebration of the 11th anniversary of the Tustin temple of Pythian Sisters featured the business meeting of the organization held recently in the lodge hall, with the outgoing most excellent chief, Mrs. Vera Comer, presiding.

Mrs. Carrie Stearns was elected most excellent chief, Mrs. Emma Christensen, excellent senior; Mrs. Yvette Shedd, excellent junior; Mrs. Beulah Hamilton, manager; Mrs. Clara Blackwell, mistress of records and correspondence; Dr. Estelle Workman, mistress of finance; Miss Thelma Treleky, treasurer; Mrs. Lorna Prunty, outer guard; Mrs. Bertha Treleky, installing officer; Mrs. Vera Comer, press correspondent, and Mrs. Eva Holford, trustee.

Public installation of the new officers will be held jointly with the Knights of Pythias January 8 at the lodge hall, Mrs. Edna Walker, of Laguna Beach, was initiated. Mrs. Nell Thompson, chairman of the social committee, announced that an old-fashioned school party

California Club Sloop Winner Of Race Off Balboa

NEWPORT BEACH, Dec. 10.—In light winds over a shortened course Russ Simmons sailed the sloop "Ay Ay Ay," representing the California Yacht club, to a victory yesterday off the Balboa pier, the first of a series of three mid-winter six-meter class races. Simmons' time was one hour, 44 minutes and five seconds.

The "Ay Ay Ay" was in front for the duration of the race, as the sloop found the prevailing winds exactly to her liking. The entrants sailed a six-mile windward and leeward course. In second place was Bill Bartholomew's "Mystery," of Newport harbor, in an hour and 49 minutes. Morgan Adams, skippering the "Ripples" of Los Angeles, captured third place, in two hours and 50 seconds. Light rains and little wind made the race a difficult one.

will be held December 20 at the lodge hall.

Upon retiring to the dining room, the members were surprised to find a beautifully decorated cake, a birthday greeting to the Sisters, presented by Jerome C. Kidd, outgoing chancellor commander, on behalf of the Knights of Pythias.

MALLOW NAMED PRESIDENT OF FESTIVAL BODY

LAGUNA BEACH, Dec. 10.—Luther F. Mallow, local druggist and member of the city council, was chosen president of the Laguna Beach Festival of Arts association at a meeting of the newly elected board of directors held Friday evening at the residence of Mrs. Elinor Hutchings, 26 Ocean avenue.

The office of first vice president went to Ajax Wolf, well known local business man and property owner. Frank Hevener, president of the Citizens' bank, was named treasurer, and Mrs. Hutchings was given the office of secretary.

Mallow succeeds Capt. George A. Portus as head of the festival organization. He was actively identified with the festival held two years ago. Wolf held the place of George K. Brandt, president of the Art Association, while Hevener replaces John Gibson, cashier of the Citizens' bank, as treasurer. The office of secretary was held by Gene Douglas, local automobile dealer.

The other two members of the board are Miss Virginia Woolley, who holds the office of second vice president, and R. Frederick Heckman, both well known artists and members of the Laguna Beach Art association.

The new board is expected to take up the matter of membership status and also outline plans for increasing the association's membership. In this connection it was suggested that an invitation be extended to all those who this summer joined the association and paid $1 in dues to become members of the corporation without paying any further dues this year.

Discussion of plans revealed that there is a general sentiment to move forward the date for holding the festival, preferably in the early part of the summer season.

BREA PASTOR IN SERMON ON BIBLE STUDY

BREA, Dec. 10.—"Up-To-the-Minute Literature" was the subject of the sermon preached by the Rev. Donald F. Gaylord at the Congregational church on Sunday morning. He said in part:

"Today in many places throughout the world churches are observing in some special way the 400th anniversary of the completed translation of the Bible by Luther. Back of that is 3000 years of history and writing giving prestige to the greatest book in the world.

"We pay much lip tribute to the Bible but an amazing large number of church people do not read the Bible. Many treat it as a picture puzzle, wherein every verse is made to fit into the whole with a special significance, but if we read the Bible with an open mind we find that we cannot pick out the verses here and there and use them, without their full context, to build up a dogmatic religion.

"We need to be concerned about a religion without the Bible which is growing up in the churches. We must read the Bible if we are to be Christians, we must read it to know what it says and because it will be a corrective for the many false theories about us. How can we consider ourselves Christians and not know the text book for Christianity?

"It is an old and exploded idea that the writings of the prophets have nothing to do with our present economic conditions, or that the gospel of Jesus Christ has no relation to the present situations in crime, wrong social conditions, peace and war.

"The Bible is not full of dead dogmas and axioms aimed to prove or disprove them. It is a history of men and women like ourselves, some greater, some no greater, some not so good. But they are confronted with the same trials, the same temptations, the same problems that we must meet and that concern us today. What shall we do about suffering and evil? What shall we do about bringing about the will of our Lord? What is our attitude toward God? What does He think of us? These are the things that matter and their solutions are to be found in the Bible and not in our newspapers and magazines."

The New Deal and the Joneses

They See Regulation Spread To New Fields

This is the eighteenth article in a series, telling how the Joneses, typical American family, study the New Deal and gain a clear knowledge of its workings.

BY WILLIS THORNTON
Chapter Eighteen

Pa Jones shut off the radio with a snap. "Guess it's gettin' on time to go to bed," he said. Then he gazed at the silent radio reflectively.

"Do you realize the government's even controlling that thing now?" he asked, as much of himself as of John Jr., who had also been listening. "Industry and labor through the NRA, farmers through the AAA, banking through the RFC and all those other loaning agencies, railroads through the Interstate Commerce Commission, public utilities through the threat of TVA competition, securities and the stock exchange through another commission!"

"Now the radio, and telephone, and telegraph lines through the Communications Commission.

"And I see where Secretary Ickes isn't satisfied with controlling oil through the Oil Administration, but threatens to take over the whole industry for the public.

"And where Joe Eastman, the co-ordinator of transportation, wants to take in all transportation, steamships, barge lines, motor trucks, pipe-lines and airplanes, and regulate 'em under the Interstate Commerce Commission along with the railroads.

"There doesn't seem to be any place this government control can stop, once it gets going, does there?"

Other Nations Own Lines

"Oh, I don't know," reflected John Jr. "Radio is a means of communication something like the postoffice, when you come down to it.

"Fact is, practically all countries own their own telephone and telegraph lines just like they do the postoffice department. So I don't see why we should worry about merely regulating 'em."

"Yes, I know about those European telephone and telegraph systems," Pa retorted. "Ben Bunsen, who was in France for the Mammoth Co. several years, told me you're like to go crazy trying to get a call through on the French government system."

"That's probably one reason why our government hasn't taken over the systems here long ago," John Jr. continued. "You know there was a strong effort to take 'em over after the World war, when the government did run 'em for a while.

"But they do give good service, maybe the best in the world. And the oil industry, even if it has been

"It's hardly fair to regulate telephone and telegraph lines without regulating radio, by which more and more messages are being sent all the time."

wasteful, gave us auto owners the best and cheapest gas in the world.

Regulation Necessary

"Then, of course, there are thousands of stockholders in both the utilities and the oil companies, and people are afraid they'd lose their savings if the government grabbed the telephone lines or oil companies.

"That's why they try to regulate 'em rather than to operate 'em."

"Of course," Pa Jones granted. "I think everybody agrees that utilities such as telephone and telegraph, which are naturally a monopoly, have to be regulated. Because if they have all the business tied up, even if they give good service, they can gouge the public on rates."

"Yes," insisted John Jr. "But state regulation hasn't been much good. You know that. That's why they've had to establish a national commission to regulate telephone, telegraph and broadcasting.

"They are national, go all over the country, and they have to be regulated on that same basis, especially since holding companies have tied together utilities of many states.

Equal Treatment of All
"Furthermore, you're right at least this far: Regulation of one thing does lead to regulation of others, because they compete with one another.

"It's hardly fair to regulate railroads and not buses, barge lines and pipe lines, or even airplanes. It's hardly fair to regulate telephone and telegraph lines without regulating radio, which is sending more and more messages by wireless all the time."

"That's all pretty general," said Pa impatiently. "What exactly do they intend to do, for instance, in this Federal Communications Commission?"

"Well, for instance, they're going to see why telephone rates haven't come down as much as most things, whether employees' wages were cut while executives continued to get big salaries, just what are all these involved relations between the big American Telephone and Telegraph and the dozens of little companies it controls, and whether its property valuations and charges for depreciation of equipment aren't maybe too high. Those valuations are what rates depend on."

Where Radio Comes In
"But where does radio come in?" asked Pa.

"Radio's to be regulated," went on John Jr., "because there are only a certain number of wave-lengths possible on the air. Somebody's got to say who's to have 'em or there'd be such a confusion you couldn't get anything when you tried to tune in.

"Once again, who's going to say? The government. What's the kick on a little regulation, when this is the only government in the world that has given all the wave-lengths and all the time on the air to commercial operators to sell?"

"That sounds all right," countered Pa, "but don't forget that this same private ownership put the first and the best programs on the air.

"What would you get on government programs? A lot of educational hokey nobody wants to hear, and a lot of political speeches from the party in power.

"Programs now may not be uplifting, but at least they have to be interesting, or they don't pay!"

Cites Railroad Muddle

"Nothing has been more closely regulated than the railroads since the World war, and I can't see where they're any shining example of government control.

"They got farther behind the times than any other industry. I say it's because initiative was throttled by red tape and regulation, and they couldn't cut wages, or raise rates, or build new lines, or abandon old ones without long palaver.

"And they're still on the ragged edge of the rocks, in spite of millions tossed to them by the RFC. If that's regulation, I say the less we have, the better."

"Well, we're going to have more of it instead of less," insisted John Jr. "And I think Secretary Ickes was dead right when he told the oil men that he hopes they'll set their house in order under regulation, and cut out the waste and oil bootlegging, because if they don't there's only one answer—and that's outright government ownership of the whole industry, utilities, oil, coal, railroads, telephone and telegraph lines.

"That's going to be pushed hard, anyway, by some of the western radicals in the new congress."

"Say, son," interrupted Pa Jones, "there's one thing the government doesn't regulate yet, and that's when to go to bed. Let's call it a day, and turn in."

(Copyright, 1934, NEA Service, Inc.)

NEXT: The Tariff—Pa Jones, with 40 years of memory back of him, is skeptical of tariff tinkering, but his son hopes for a new era of "swapping even" with other countries.

DISTRICT CLUBS TO BE FORMED BY DEMOCRATS

A message from Culbert L. Olson, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee to "all loyal Democrats of the 74th and 75th assembly districts, in Orange county," was made public today.

The letter received here said "It is entirely in line with the Democratic party organization work throughout the state that a Democratic club be organized in each assembly district, to membership in which all loyal Democrats in that assembly district shall be eligible and invited to join.

"I understand that this has already been done in the 75th assembly district and that application for a charter for the 75th assembly district Democratic club has been made to the state committee. Application should be made to the state committee for a charter for the organization of a Democratic club in the 74th assembly district."

"Application forms may be secured by addressing a letter to the state chairman, 639 South Spring street, Los Angeles, or to Robert A. Trow, 105 North Spadra, Fullerton.

"I might state here that eligibility to membership in any Democratic club organization under a charter issued by the state committee requires that the applicant shall firmly believe in and desire to promote the principles of the platform of the Democratic party of the state of California adopted by the state convention at Sacramento on September 20."

IN WAKE OF SEA RAMPAGE

Pictured below are scenes from West Newport and Balboa, showing effects of the high seas which pounded the region Saturday and Sunday. At the top is shown the home of Mrs. Grace DeCoursey, 5300 Ocean Front, which was smashed by a comber yesterday morning. The home of E. F. Hayden, which previously had been moved two blocks inland to a spot of supposed safety, is shown as it was left by the seas which swept over the Pacific Electric tracks and inland P. E. tracks are at the right, marked by line of poles. At the bottom is the Balboa Beach front playground, looking east, flooded as a result of Sunday's tides, which swept over the board walk along the ocean front.

WARNS DEALERS NOT TO BUY UNRIPE FRUIT

In a warning issued today, County Agricultural Commissioner E. W. Tubbs notified fruit stand operators to be on the watch for offerings of immature oranges and avocados in the wake of the recent windstorms, anticipating attempts to market windblown fruit.

"A number of cases have already been reported to this office, regarding immature fruit being offered to fruit stands, apparently in an attempt to salvage windfalls. These include both the new crop Valencia oranges and varieties of avocados which will not be mature for several months," said Tubbs.

"A chart showing the season at which different varieties of avocados normally mature may be had on application to the agricultural commissioner's office," he said. "An avocado is legally mature when the flesh contains 8 percent oil; but the oil content can be accurately determined only by chemical analysis. However, maturity may be roughly gauged by cutting the fruit. If the seed coat is light colored, thick and pulpy, instead of dark and of papery texture, the fruit is probably quite immature.

"Valencia oranges of the new crop, have reached a degree of color which makes it difficult to distinguish them from mature off-blooms. If the fruit is cut, however, the difference is readily seen by comparing the deep orange color of the pulp of mature fruit with the paler yellow color of that of immature fruit.

"Orange county valencias, to be considered mature, must have a ratio of 8 parts of soluble solids (sugars) to 1 part of acid in the juice. The agricultural commissioner's office is equipped to make maturity tests of citrus fruits. In taking samples for testing, the smallest, greenest, least mature fruits should be selected, and if these test only 8 to 1 or but slightly above, it is probable that when graded and sized, some of the fruit will fail to pass.

"By refusing to sell immature fruit, growers will cooperate with this office in enforcing the spirit of the standardization requirements which they have put into the agricultural code," he concluded.

A noted medical authority on the subject of reducing weight, said that such drugs were dangerous, except when given under a physician's orders—that the best means for controlling weight or reducing it, was by the calory route. Learn to count the calories and you won't break the scales when you have your weekly weighing. Best of all, this reducing method costs nothing but will power. . . . are you long on will power, or weak and willing?

Every Sunday morning we bake an apple sauce cake filled with raisins and chopped dates. Sometimes, if nuts are at hand, the cake gets a handful, but when the nuts are few, we do this with them: Crumble 3 graham crackers fine and mix to a meal with 1 Tbsp. butter. When the batter is in the pan, strew the graham crumble over the cake and scatter a few walnut meats, chopped fine, over the crumble. Then with a spoon back, press the crumble gently into the batter, not deep, just enough to anchor it. Bake the cake in a slow oven. The crumble takes the place of frosting, is less rich, and twice as good (we think). By the way, that's a swell idea for topping coffee cake, the kind you make for Sunday morning breakfast or luncheon, when you have time.

1 cup flour
1-2 tsp. salt.

Beat the eggs and salt to a thick froth. Add sugar and beat again. Then add the flour sifted once with baking powder, and stir in the raisins and whole unblanched almonds. Spread quite thin in cookie pans and bake 20-25 minutes in a moderate oven. Sprinkle with sugar when baked and cut into fingers.

Have you tried whole (small) ripe persimmons for salads? Snip off the stalk end and cut from the small end down, almost through, the stem-end. Press back the strips to form petals, filling the center with very tart lemon mayonnaise. Small avocados are coming into the markets now in quantity and are so very cheap, lovers of this delicacy may celebrate. A half avocado filled with tart French dressing and flanked by sliced orange or grapefruit on lettuce is a salad de luxe.

Cube the less perfect ones and poach them in clear broth, chicken broth preferably.

There are approximately 3000 calories in the Bishop's Bread. If the name runs true to form, I can understand why the bishops of my small-girl days were always so terrifically authoritative. Some one less respectful might describe their particular shortcomings as "German Goitre."

Newly Married Couple Living in Whittier Heights

Pleasantly established in Whittier Heights, Ralph Alexander Garroway and his bride, the former Miss Vanche Genevieve Wicks, both of this city, are receiving congratulations on their wedding Wednesday, November 28, in Los Angeles First Presbyterian church.

Announcement of the couple's marriage was made the following day at a Thanksgiving dinner in the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Garroway, 122 West Eighteenth street. The bride, who came here from Hawaii two years ago, is the daughter of Mrs. J. H. Wicks, 304 West Chestnut street, and a granddaughter of Mrs. Emma J. Bull, 1615 Durant street.

Since the dinner guests were aware that the ceremony had taken place, they showered the new Mr. and Mrs. Garroway with a variety of gifts including china, crystal and silver.

The ceremony uniting the young couple in the Los Angeles church was read by the Rev. Hugh R. Walker, the same minister who married Mr. Garroway's parents 23 years ago. The bride wore a brown suit with matching hat and accessories and a bouquet of gardenias and violets. An identical cluster of flowers graced the tulle tulle worn by the bridegroom's sister, Miss Betty Garroway, as maid of honor. Donald Lewis of Orange attended his life long friend as best man.

Special significance attached to the ring sealing the rites. It was a gold band remodeled from a ring originally fashioned from a coin made during the year the bride's mother was born.

Following the ceremony, wedding festivities took place at a Los Angeles supper club.

Mr. Garroway is employed with the Standard Oil company in Whittier. He attended U. C. L. A., where he was a member of Delta Upsilon fraternity. His bride attended Santa Ana Junior college.

Reception Follows Altar Society Meeting
Following their meeting last week in the hall, members of St. Ann's Altar Society participated in a reception held in the parish house, where the Rev. Father Thomas Butler and women of the church joined as hosts.

The occasion was in honor of officers of the society, Mrs. James Colombini, president; Mrs. John J. Jacob, vice-president; Mrs. Frank Sheeler, secretary; Mrs. Roland Langenbeck, treasurer.

Tables were pretty with red tapers and bowls of red and white mints. A decorated cake bearing the names of the four officers was served with ice cream and coffee. Mrs. Marion Mower, church organist, provided a short program of piano selections. The Rev. Father Butler presented gifts to the honored guests.

During their business meeting earlier in the afternoon, members made plans to have a benefit card party next Thursday at 2 p. m. in Knights of Columbus hall. Arrangements were discussed for the annual children's holiday party.

Congregational Church Leaders Begin 21st Year of Service

Fulfilling their usual Sunday duties yesterday at First Congregational church, the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Perry Frederick Schrock began their 21st year of service in this community. They joined a congregation whose devotion had found happy expression Thursday when a reception was given to celebrate the couple's 20th anniversary as leader of the Santa Ana church.

Held Thursday afternoon and evening in the Y. M. C. A., the reception was attended by several hundred Orange county residents and other Southland visitors. They included the moderator of Southern California Congregational conference, A. J. Pritchard, with Mrs. Pritchard. Other ministers in the conference, of which the Rev. Mr. Schrock is a past moderator, were present.

Local organizations represented included the Ministerial Union, on whose behalf the Rev. W. S. Buchanan, pastor of First Christian church, made a short congratulatory talk.

Pepper and eucalyptus bouquets in the reception room formed a background for the many bouquets which were among the gifts received by the honored couple.

Guests were greeted at the door by Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Gowen, and then asked to sign their names in the books presided over in the afternoon by Miss Marion Cruickshank and in the evening by Miss Eleanor Crookshank.

Adding to the hospitable setting was a blazing fire on the hearth, near which the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Schrock stood to receive their friends. At the other end of the room was a large table spread with lace and lighted with tapers. The centerpiece was a tiered cake decked with rosebuds and inscribed with a verse congratulating the pastor and his wife. This confection, baked by Mrs. R. S. Frest, a member of the church, was placed in a circle of candles whose number signified 20 years of service.

Coffee was served with mints, nuts and decorated cookies provided by women of the church. Those who poured coffee were Mesdames Carrie Watson, Jennie Peek, C. F. Crose and J. S. Talcott. In the afternoon; Mesdames E. M. Neale, N. J. Beale, A. J. Cruickshank and C. G. Huston. In the evening, Mrs. F. P. Nickey was prominent in carrying out arrangements for the event both afternoon and evening.

During the evening reception, the Rev. Mr. Schrock received a cellophone box filled with a substantial sum of money, with J. A. Cranston making the presentation on behalf of the congregation.

Women of the church had made yellow and white quilts finished with borders bearing their names. These gifts, wrapped in a cellophane package topped with rosebuds, were presented to Mrs. Schrock by Mrs. Sallie Powell. The two honor guests responded with talks of appreciation.

Musical numbers included piano solos by Mrs. Walter Spicer, accompanied by Russell Rowland.

"The Pageant of Cuba" by Hudson Strode begins when the gentle-spirited natives crept to the shore to witness the arrival of ships they thought had come from heaven. These were the ships bringing Columbus and the heavy-weaponed Spaniards, who bore Christian commissions and an unconquerable lust for gold.

The story proceeds through the brutal days of colonization and the bloody search for treasure. It runs through the pulse-racing times of the corsairs to the gay, aneal days and nights of courtship and dancing and gaming. We have the account of the patriotic struggles for freedom from autocracy to the intoxicated decades of liberty and phenomenal wealth, termination in the recent economic and political turmoil.

Whatever the quality of the tropical background, whatever political party is in or out, Mr. Strode has stressed the foreignness—the other-worldliness of the island. The locale shifts from remote country districts to the gold-covet, in the aftermath of the brigand-infested mountains, from battlefields to fountained patios. The maciote and guitar, the garrote and rumba, the cock fights, the collapse of sugar, eternal ships, slipping in and out of the hundred harbors, the glories of the Cuban sky by day and night, the national game of love-making—all are elements in the drama of the land which Columbus said was the fairest man's eye had ever looked upon.

Mr. Strode's story of this neighbor island is justly sympathetic and non-controversial. No such comprehensive one volume work on Cuba's four centuries' history has ever before been written.

When Jack Frost's helper landed in the net, his face spread in a grin. Then, to the men who held the net he shouted, "That was great!"

"The Tynmites were very scared and, now, how lucky they've fared. When I told them to jump, they didn't hesitate."

Then Dotty said, "Say, tell us, please, who are these strangers who, with ease, held this big net out so we all could land here, safe and sound?"

"I think that I've seen them before. Now, wait until I look some more." "Why, sure you've seen us," one man said, as they all gathered round.

"Aw, shucks, I know," snapped

Duncy. "Gee, my memory's good as it can be. We met them all last Christmas time, when we helped Santa Claus."

"To Toy Land we all journeyed and with Santa's work we lent a hand." "You bet you did," one man said, "and 'twas for a real good cause."

"Now, once more Santa Claus is tired, but I am sure he'll be inspired to keep on with his work, if all you tots will help him out."

"Don't worry," little Dotty cried. "That's why we took a long sky ride. We're glad to do our share. Just tell us what it's all about."

"Oh, we can't tell it all, right here, but you'll soon find out, never fear," one of the men said. "Come along. We're off on quite a hike."

"Toy Land's across the ice and snow. If everyone is set, let's go! I'm positive that Toy Land is a place you all will like."

The trip across the snow was fun. When little Duncy tried to run, he slipped and took a flop, and all the Tynmites laughed in glee.

Soon Jack Frost's helper loudly cried, "We've reached Toy Land! Walk right inside. It won't be very long until old Jack Frost you will see."

NOW IS THE TIME TO THINK ABOUT CASH FOR CHRISTMAS

There is no time like the present to think about Christmas cash and how to get it. May we offer this suggestion: If you will take the trouble to look around you will no doubt find a number of things you no longer have use for, but are of value. Look up in the attic, down in the basement or in that old trunk out in the garage. There you will find things long forgotten—things that some one would like to have. Run a small inexpensive ad on this page and you will find a CASH BUYER!

THE PLIGHT OF THE GERMAN REFUGEES

James G. McDonald of the Foreign Policy Association, who is now High Commissioner in Europe for the relief of German refugees, shocked many listeners when he talked over the radio a short time ago and revealed the distress which he has seen with his own eyes, and to which he has been trying to minister.

It is shocking to think of 30,000 human beings who have been expelled or deported from Germany since the Nazi regime came into power. For the most part these refugees are Jews, whose only sin was that they were thrifty and were born without Aryan blood in their veins. Among them are not only tradesmen and artisans, but also professors in colleges and professional men.

These people know no other country. Most of them are penniless because the German government has refused to give them or forward to them property that was legally acquired. To readjust themselves in the border countries of Germany, where they are neither needed nor wanted, is a practical impossibility. Ten thousand have been sent to Palestine where the Zionists have established a colony for Jews. In the border countries they are men and women without a country. Their movements are restricted on every hand. They can find no stable residence anywhere.

Among these refugees there are also many who, by reason of minor political offenses or because they have fallen under the suspicion of the Nazi authorities, have been compelled to flee the land of their birth. For the most part these are high-grade men and women—ministers, literary people, liberty-loving idealists—who would be a credit to any civilized country. They have been unable to adjust themselves to a tyrannical overlord, and for that reason have had to leave their homes.

When Turkey deported the Armenians during and after the war, marching whole families into the desert to die of hunger and privation, the civilized world was shocked. But that was the work of what has been contemptuously called "the unspeakable Turk." How distressing is the thought that a nation which has given to the world some of the foremost poets, scholars, philosophers, and musicians, the country which was the birthplace of the great Reformation which gave men the right to think for themselves, should suddenly become so heartless as to drive men and women into exile, to become strangers in a land which has no room for them, and without resources legitimately theirs.

We think well of the German people. No one who has had acquaintance with them here or in their own country can have failed to admire them for their ability and for their good citizenship. By what strange machinations have a people of that sort been willing to condone a government capable of such cruelties? Must another lesson like that of the great war be taught these people before they return to sanity? It is certain that such a course as that upon which the leaders of that nation have set out must again end in arousing the bitterness of the good people of the world against them.

"THEY WHOM THE GODS WOULD DESTROY"

It is a familiar saying that "they whom the gods would destroy they first make mad." This saying applies to the reactions of the Old Guard of the Republican party to the suggestions made by Senator Borah and some of the younger leaders of the party that the party is in need of reorganization.

The reaction to these suggestions was immediate. Mr. Fletcher, the national chairman, immediately replies that he is on the job to stay; that he has the support of the whole committee; and that he will not be driven from the chairmanship or welcome any such suggestions as are made by the would-be leaders of the reorganized party. Mr. Fess, with his usual bad finesse, suggests that he would as soon confer with Norman Thomas, the Socialist leader, on the future of the party as with Senator Borah. Now Gifford Pinchot and Colonel Roosevelt add their voices to those calling for new blood, and a new voice in that of Charles D. Hilles, former national chairman, rises up to say Nay. Surely the fight is on between the old and the new, with the old behind the ramparts of tradition and actual possession.

One thing is certain, there cannot be two liberal parties. There should not be either two liberal or two conservative parties. But a conservative party need not once and for all hold to the faith of the past. Even conservative parties may be progressive. New occasions teach new duties and new methods. Stand-patism means stagnation and death.

The difficulty that exists today is that both parties are too composite. The conservatives of one party are matched by the conservatives in the other; and the same is true of the liberals.

The power of a dead tradition alone holds conservatives and liberals together with the ranks of the two major parties, and that power is hard to break. Only the complete disintegration of one of the major parties can break that power.

And it looks now, if the old guard of the Republican party maintains its rule and ruin policy, that that party will fall to pieces. If that happens, it will simply follow our national tradition. The Federalists and the Whigs, both the conservative parties of our earlier national history, disintegrated. The Republican party rose to take their place. And now that party appears to be in the throes of dissolution.

This is not a prophecy. Politics is an elusive business. Because something happened in the past, it is not a guarantee that such a thing will happen in the future. But humanly speaking, the stage is set in this inner squabble within the Republican party, after its crushing defeat in two successive elections, for some new realignment of parties.

"THE LITTLE RED HOUSE"

The Christmas seal stamps, now finding their way into the market of benevolence and good will, bear the picture of a little cottage in which began one of the great human salvaging movements of modern times. Here Dr. Edward L. Trudeau, among the open sweeps of the Adirondacks, cured himself of tuberculosis by resting. Twenty-eight years ago, when these seals were first used, tuberculosis was a lingering disease which inevitably ended in death. The ravage of the disease might be halted, but it was not thought that it could be permanently cured. Now that over 600 sanitariums, all growing out of that little one-room cottage at Lake Saranac, are scattered about the country, we have learned that no one need die of tuberculosis who submits himself to a regimen of complete rest and correct diet.

Tuberculosis, up to that time, was looked upon as the white scourge. Today, like smallpox, like diphtheria, and many other supposedly fatal diseases, it no longer dooms its victim. One man's affliction has made possible the happy continuance of life for millions who otherwise might have dragged out a weary existence until a merciful death should overtake them.

And now these Christmas seals, taken by people all over this country in small amounts, make possible the continuance of this work of salvaging human lives. Every stamp placed upon a Christmas package and a Christmas greeting is an evidence of that interest which all of us may have in the wellbeing of those afflicted with a disease from which there is an escape for all.

FOOD COSTS

The Department of Labor, in one of its recent bulletins, gives the figures of food costs on November 6 last, as compared with those of October 23 and October 9 of the current year, with those of November 7, 1933 and November 15, 1932, and with those of November 15, 1929. Items listed are cereals, meats, dairy products, eggs, fruits, vegetables, coffee, tea, lard products and oleomargarine.

According to this survey, covering over 60 cities widely scattered over the country, food prices on November 15, 1929, were 27.8 per cent higher than they were on November 6 last. This, it will be recalled, was the boom year. On November 15, 1932, the low point of the depression, these food products were 16 per cent less than on November 6 last. On November 7, 1933, prices dropped 8 per cent.

On October 9 of the current year food prices, as compared with November 6, were 0.3 per cent higher; and on October 23 prices dropped again to 0.1 per cent lower than they were on November 6.

In fine, the cost of food today is 27.8 per cent cheaper than in 1929, and 16 per cent and 8 per cent higher than it was respectively in 1932 and 1933, with the present tendency downward. These figures pretty clearly indicate the state of business. With prosperity food prices rise; with depression food prices fall. From these figures it will be seen that business is better than it was in 1932 and 1933, but has yet some way to go before it rises to the figures of 1929.

Crime's Wage Scale

San Diego Union

Twelve years ago seven criminal "big shots" robbed the Denver mint of $200,000, a highly successful job according to any criminal standard. Sunday's issue of The Union carried a story which reveals the sad showing this feat makes when summed up on the actual balance sheet of history.

Two of the criminals are serving life sentences. Five of them are dead. The gang spent the intervening years in almost constant flight from the law, its members meeting violent deaths one by one until the two survivors found a final refuge in prison cells.

Of course $200,000 is a large sum even when divided among six persons—one of the men was killed during the robbery. But the means taken by these men and women to secure their small fortunes deprived the money of most of its value. The overhead of an endless flight quickly ate up the proceeds of the exploit. That overhead continued after the money was gone, driving them to more desperate crimes, enlisting new enemies against them, breeding suspicion and fear and despair.

Briefly they possessed money but even when they spent part of that money seeking pleasure they knew that every bill was a possible betrayer. They saw a fortune pass through their hands but—if they thought at all while they crept from one alley to another—they learned during those 12 years that no part of this fortune ever was their fortune.

Give the Students a Show!

San Francisco Chronicle

Why raise raucous shouts at the answers returned by college students to examination questions? The trouble is not in the students but in the questions. The examiners make a point of putting questions on subjects the students know nothing about. Why not, for a change, ask the classes about matters they can be expected to know?

For example, who is the captain of the football team? What was the score in the last game? On what date will the class throw its next party? What soda fountain puts up the best sundaes?

With questions like these, the examiners, who are so fond of saying their pupils know nothing, would find there are things the students know and know thoroughly well.

But this proceeding would involve a fatal disclosure. The things the students know well are matters on which their instructors have given them no help. The things they do not know are the ones on which their teachers have spent all their energy.

Whose fault then, when students give dumb answers?

More Truth Than Poetry

LOOKING FORWARD

IN Portland, Oregon, policemen are being taught to cope with lawbreakers with polite speech.

A statesman must spice his orations
With plenty of vigor and vim;
When he gets in full swing
The welkin must ring
Or no one will listen to him.
If he cannot excitedly view with alarm
Or hail with a note of acclaim,
Not one lone single cheer
The poor fellow will hear
And he'll have to get out of the game.

But why should Policemen be tutored
In the nicer refinements of speech?
They come of a breed
Which has never a need
To plead and entreat and beseech.
They only need say, "Can the comeback, me lad,
And don't hand me any more jaw
Or the hoose-gow for you."
And there's nothing to do,
For their words are backed up by the law.

Teach policemen to talk like a solon
And carefully speak every word
Make them say, "My dear friend,
I am sorry—no end.
If, in checking your progress, I erred?"
This possibly may be accomplished, I think.
After many and many a year,
But what good will that do
To me or to you?
For neither of us will be here.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLEN FRANK

TOLERATING EXPERIMENTERS

A member of the Roosevelt cabinet asked me the other evening how long I thought the American people would give a free hand to a policy of political experimentation.

This question came after I had agreed with another member of the party that in a time like this honest experimentation is preferable to cocksureness in national leadership.

"But," the cabinet member insisted, "will the rank and file of the people leave leadership free to experiment long enough really to prove the long-run soundness or unsoundness of the policies an experimenting leadership puts into effect?"

I told him I thought that depended entirely upon the ability of leadership to finance experimentation without an intolerable inflation or an intolerable taxation or both. It is on this point that the fate of the New Deal seems to me to hang.

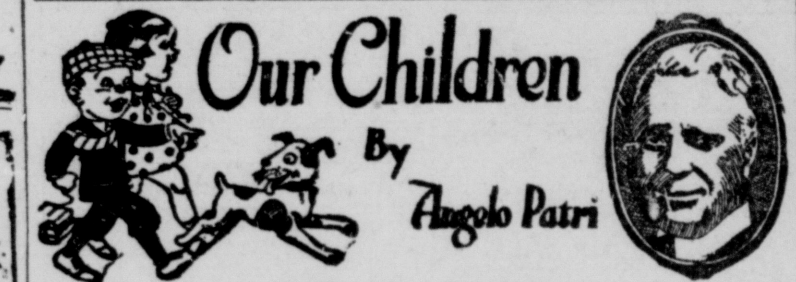

As I have said before the smashing reaffirmation of Mr. Roosevelt's mandate for leadership on November 6 was by no stretch of generous imagination, a blanket approval of all the New Deal policies. It was an instinctive reaction of a sporting people to a leader who, as they had watched, seemed seriously attempting to do something. As long as no well thought out alternative was offered to them, it did not occur to them to do other than give him a cheer for further effort.

That mass mood would, I am convinced, change overnight if it became sun clear that the continuance of the New Deal experimentalism necessitated two things, viz:

(1) Drastic inflation.
(2) Drastic taxation.
All of the people are not unemployed or on relief. The majority have some capital, life insurance policies, and so on. They have been hard hit nevertheless, and they have no bulging surplus of cash. To date they have not felt seriously any watering down of their dollars, and they have not seen federal taxes shoot skyward. But let them feel their dollars shrinking radically in their hands, let them face drastically increased taxes, and they will rise to demand a halt on lush experimentation.

This is why Mr. Roosevelt should re-read his own assertion to Congress that liberal governments all to often crash on the rock of loose fiscal policy.

A VOICE OF EXPERIENCE

"Todd, you ask your mother for some cookies. Go ahead, I'm awful hungry."

"So'm I Your mother's cookies are awful good. Go on, Todd, ask her for some."

"She maybe won't give them to me because it is near lunchtime."

"O, go on, make her give them to you."

"Huh? She maybe won't give me any. If she says 'No,' I can't make her give me any, can I?"

"Pooh. I make my mother give me things."

"Me too. I betcha I could make my mother give me anything. Just by hollerin' for it."

"Yeah. Just by hollerin'. If she don't give it when I holler I lie down on the floor and holler and kick like anything and then she gives it to me. Go on, Todd, holler and she'll give you some and if she don't, kick the door. That's what I do."

"And I cry something terrible and my mother just says, 'There, there, don't make such a fuss. The neighbors will hear you, and gives it to me. Just as easy.'"

"Not my mother. She won't give me anything if I cry or not. If she says no then I don't get it and if I holler I wouldn't get it anyhow only I'd get something else. If you want to go holler at your mother you can. It's all right for you maybe, but it isn't any good for me. I know my mother."

They were five years old and a little more. They had been playing in Todd's yard for about an hour and felt that they needed more nourishment. Todd seldom got anything to eat between meals but sometimes his mother thought that an inbetween lunch would help and he got it. Maybe this would be one of those times. A cookie would taste good to Todd.

He went to the kitchen. Mother was preparing lunch. Todd looked at the clock. The big hand was close to twelve. Without a word he went back to his hungry friends. "It's too close to lunch."

"Did you ask her?"

"No. What's the use of asking when it is lunch time nearly?"

"O, all right for you, Todd Hunter. Wait until you want something. Come on home, Dan. It's near our lunch time too."

Todd knew by experience that cookies did not come so close to mealtime. If they came at all it was in the middle of the morning or afternoon. He knew too that hollerin', kicking, demanding would get him nothing but some unpleasant and inconvenient experience known as punishment.

Children have a shrewdness little suspected by the grownup people with whom they are dealing. They know how to get what they want and unless we are as clear minded about things as they are they use us to their hurt. It does not pay to be sentimental about children. They are hard realists.
